It is necessary to acquaint readers with the biographies of war veterans, veterans of the army and navy, who are their relatives, to form the right attitude to state awards. The teaching staff of the educational institution needs to involve parents in the organization of military activities in the form of a game of students, as well as in walking with children over long distances (for example, picking mushrooms), during the harvest or fishing. At the same time, children need to be taught to determine the place, overcome obstacles and much more. Teachers can advise parents on all questions that arise.
